David Morgan was in for a shock when he actually woke up dead one morning and found out it was the first time he was truly alive. David watched as his lifeless body was wheeled out of his home with his wife of thirty four years in tears, but his emotions about the situation puzzled him. David goes on an exploratory journey with a recently deceased young man and discovers what his life was really all about. David also discovers that being an immortal life force carried its own set of perils as forces far more powerful than he ever imagined hold the fate of all existence in their hands. David meets many others that had crossed over from their past human existence over the history of mankind. Together they bear witness to Judgment Day and the fate of all that inhabit the earth be they man or his life force.
