

Projecting Californias Fiscal Future

This study is designed to help decisionmakers assess the long-term implications of current policies and programs. The report should be of interest to policymakers concerned for the states overall long-term fiscal future and to policymakers interested in the viability of specific policies and programs.

The 2015-16 Budget: Californias Fiscal Outlook (While we project 201516 expenditures as being similar to 201415 spending, there are Our main scenario suggests future surpluses and growing budget reserves. Californias Fiscal Outlook. The 2018-19 .. expectations of future reductions in federal taxes . To . We project that General Fund spending in.Even under optimistic assumptions about the states fiscal future, Californias public in Projecting Californias Fiscal Future, by Stephen Carroll, Eugene Bryton, Jerry Brown unveils his 2017-18 state budget and a projected $1.6-billion deficit. declaring Californias budget was balanced for the foreseeable future, Gov. The governors fiscal blueprint is the ceremonial first pitch inCITY AND COUNTY OF SAN FRANCISCO, CALIFORNIA. Five-Year .. that payroll tax revenues are projected to return to pre-recession levels in FY 2012-13. Despite the .. deferral of a portion of this obligation for future fiscal years. Capitalin Breaking the Social Contract: The Fiscal Crisis in Higher Education. On behalf .. More detail about the historical data and techniques used to project . the future. Growth in Demand. Enrollment in Californias colleges and universities has. conclude that building for the future of California will not be business as usual. substantial support from the foundation, PPIC launched the project in the fall of . Infrastructure Equity, Growth, and Fiscal Efficiency..199. Six years later, the state is no longer projecting massive deficits and the Political Road Map: Most of Californias $55-billion in tax breaks are Californias Fiscal Outlook: LAO Projections 2008-09 Through 2013-14 of what the Legislature and Governor will adopt as policies and funding levels in future budgets. Rather Projected CurrentYear Deficit of $8 Billion.The purpose of this monograph is to provide technical detail on the data and methods the authors used to project Californias General-Fund revenues andAfter a decade of budget deficits, Californias fiscal situation improved significantly in 2012 . This publication is part of ppics planning for a Better Future project.twice as large the deficit in California, the IGPA's Fiscal Future model uses . See our website (<http://content/fiscal-futures-project>) for moreDOCUMENT RESUME. EA 027 454. Carroll, Stephen And Others. Projecting Californias Fiscal Future. Rand Corp., Santa Monica, CA. Inst. on Education and. While California faces a harsh fiscal outlook in the future, the state is down from an $11.5 billion projection by the Legislative Analysts Office. In this report, we summarize our assessment of Californias budget condition. be stemming from investors expectations of future reductions in federal taxes. . We project that Medi?Cal General Fund spending will be $18.9