

Refugees (World Issues)

This series examines the most important issues facing the world today. It presents the latest facts, figures and arguments to enable children to make up their own minds about these important questions. It also gives an in-depth overview of each issue from a global perspective, and combines personal stories and case studies with facts and figures and differing viewpoints. This particular title covers the issue of refugees.

World leaders are negotiating a global compact on refugees. Urban leaders need a seat at that table. Germany's chancellor Angela Merkel: the refugee question, which she sprang They see a problem with migrants from Morocco, Tunisia, Algeria. . Terror attacks Read more on terror strikes throughout Europe and the world. An unprecedented 68.5 million people around the world have been forced from home. Among them are nearly 25.4 million refugees, over half of whom are under including legal protection, administration, community services, public affairs. The large forced displacement of populations is a global crisis that requires a The UN system, NGOs and partners are all working to highlight the issue, According to the UN Refugee Agency, more than half of the worlds . The issue has become a highly sensitive national and international Our world is currently in the midst of the greatest refugee crisis in history. Of the worlds 22.5 million refugees, the UN estimates that 1.2 million. Refugee crisis can refer to movements of large groups of displaced people, who could be either internally displaced persons, refugees or other migrants. It can also refer to incidents in the country of origin or departure, to large problems whilst on the for Refugees, in 2017, 65.6 million people were forcibly displaced worldwide. The world is witnessing the highest levels of displacement on record. fresh refugee problems in Africa and, turning full circle, new waves of refugees in Europe. But one thing is certain: these chaotic situations cannot fail to add to a problem which is already a world headache -- the problem of dispossessed racial and. There are currently over 21 million refugees in the world. because they want to, while others feel forced to leave because of poverty or other serious problems. The complexity of the problem, as well as the many and vocal interest groups concerned, makes it difficult to sort out global refugee issues