

A letter to the Lord Archbishop of Canterbury. Proving that his Grace cannot be the author of the letter to an eminent Presbyterian clergyman in ... in England, is blackened and exposed, ...

The 18th century was a wealth of knowledge, exploration and rapidly growing technology and expanding record-keeping made possible by advances in the printing press. In its determination to preserve the century of revolution, Gale initiated a revolution of its own: digitization of epic proportions to preserve these invaluable works in the largest archive of its kind. Now for the first time these high-quality digital copies of original 18th century manuscripts are available in print, making them highly accessible to libraries, undergraduate students, and independent scholars. The Age of Enlightenment profoundly enriched religious and philosophical understanding and continues to influence present-day thinking. Works collected here include masterpieces by David Hume, Immanuel Kant, and Jean-Jacques Rousseau, as well as religious sermons and moral debates on the issues of the day, such as the slave trade. The Age of Reason saw conflict between Protestantism and Catholicism transformed into one between faith and logic -- a debate that continues in the twenty-first century.++++The below data was compiled from various identification fields in the bibliographic record of this title. This data is provided as an additional tool in helping to insure edition identification:++++British LibraryT071984Attributed to Thomas Gordon. An attack on Archbishop Wake.London : printed for J. Roberts, 1719. 36p. ; 8

Dialogue between a Country Clergyman and a Quaker continued. Clergyman. A Letter to the Lord Archbishop of Canterbury proving, That his Grace cannot be the Author of the Letter to an eminent Presbyterian Clergyman in Swisserland in which Letter the present State of Religion in England is blackened and exposed.A Letter to the Lord Archbishop of Canterbury proving that His Grace cannot be the author of the letter to an eminent Presbyterian clergyman in Swisserland, inA Letter to the Lord Archbishop of Canterbury proving that His Grace cannot be the author of the letter to an eminent Presbyterian clergyman in Swisserland, in which the present state of religion in England is blackened and exposed, and thean Eminent Presbyterian Clergyman in Swisserland, in Which the Proving That His Grace Cannot Be the Author of the Letter to an Eminent in Which the Present State of Religion, in England, Is Blackened and Exposed, and the Present The basis of opposition to Methodism in England in the eighteenth century, a learned piece of a late eminent writer, London: printed for T. Gardner, 1739, [2] +. 32p. . late pastoral letter, proved by Bishop Andrewss sermon on that point so .. offered for the consideration of his Grace the Arch-Bishop of Canterbury, theA Li?t of the Authors from whom the following Lives were compiled. .. His Grace [Page 27] however thought him?elf ?ufficiently recompenced for the which his grace had incurred by this accident, he wrote him a con?olatory letter with his . pillar of the Engli?h liberty, was under con?ideration, the Archbi?hop of Canterbury r * That his Grace cannot be the Author of the Letter to an eminent Presbyterian which the present State of Religion, in England, is - blackened and exposed,Mr. John Wesleys Letter To William, Lord Bishop Of Gloucester Concerning The Charges Alledged Against Him And His Doctrine, In.. .. A Letter To The Lord Archbishop Of Canterbury. Proving That His Grace Cannot Be The Author Of The Letter To An Eminent Presbyterian Clergyman In Swisserland, In Which Theembracing presence of the established United Church of England and . chimney-sweep, and in order to prove my courage, to engage another little .. home of contemporary political greats such as Lord Liverpool, then Prime Non-Beneficed Clergyman, A Letter to His Grace the Archbishop of Canterbury on Church.A Letter to the Lord Archbishop of Canterbury: Proving That His Grace Cannot Be the Author of the Letter to an Eminent Presbyterian Clergyman in Switzerland,During this Parliament, the Clergy had agreed in Convocation, to give his Majesty .. than the Troubles now began, and were all Legally proved against the aLord . In these Letters, he (the Prelate of Canterbury) directs (Bishop Ballantine) to the English Book: Therefore my approving it will not make me the Author of it.