

Voice of the Celtics: Johnny Most's Greatest Calls

Colorful is the one word which best described Boston Celtics broadcaster Johnny Most. While his classic gravelly-voiced calls, such as Havlicek stole the ball and Bird steals it Over to DJ He lays it in, highlight some of the greatest plays in NBA history, there are countless other memorable Most moments. Fortunately, the frantic, always emotional play-by-play announcing of the Voice of the Celtics has been preserved on a 70-minute CD, produced by Mosts oldest son Jamie, and is included in this one-of-a-kind book. For older Boston fans, the calls will bring back stirring moments of the Celtics glory days. For the teams younger fans, Mosts broadcasting style will undoubtedly serve as a lesson in basketball history. Johnny Most was a self-proclaimed homer. He rooted for the Celtics and never had a kind word for opponents or referees. His uncontrollable, total enthusiasm for Bob Cousy, Bill Russell, Dave Cowens, Larry Bird, Kevin McHale made Most a New England icon. When the Celtics games were televised, thousands of viewers would turn off the volume on their TVs and turn on the radio to hear Johnnys vivid descriptions of basketball battle. Youngsters, at bedtime, would pull the covers over their heads and hold tiny transistor radios to their ears as Most painted vivid verbal pictures of the war taking place on a basketball court. Mosts creative basketball terms Stop and Pop Bang, Tricky Dribbles, Fiddles and Diddle, Daddles and Doodles, The Pumpkin Shot, In-His-Shirt Defense, Dips, Shoots, Swishall became favorites of his audience. And, of course, there were the opposition nicknames The Hatchet Brothers, McFilthy and McNasty, The Brat, Little Lord Fauntleroy, The Supreme Hot Dog, The Princess, etc. Above all, Johnnys descriptive, sometimes over-the-top, calls were the talk of New England. When Boston played at Detroit, a disgusted

Johnny loudly commented, Oh, the yellow gutless way they do things here! And when Houston's 7'4" center Ralph Sampson fought 6'1" Celtics guard Jerry Sichting, Johnny cried out, Big Ralph Sampson picking on the littler people. Im Ralph Sampson and Ive got the right to break your head. There also was a funny side to Johnny. As examples, there was the time he set his pants on fire, and the Celtics game against a Yugoslavian team when Most had a difficult and frustrating time pronouncing the multi-syllabic last names of the opposition. This collection of the best of Most is why Johnny Most will forever be known as The Voice of the Celtics.

Note 0.0/5. Retrouvez Voices Of The Celtics: Johnny Most's Greatest Calls et des millions de livres en stock sur . Achetez neuf ou d'occasion. - 1 min - Uploaded by p0larhttp:// How i wish we still had commentators like this JVG maybe??? Voice of the Celtics: Johnny Most's Greatest Calls by Mike Carey, Jamie Most. Johnny Most, whose gravelly voice and affection for the Boston Celtics gave 1990, saying he was no longer strong enough to call the games. - 8 min - Uploaded by Jean-Sebastien BlondelLegendary announcers Johnny Most (from the Boston Celtics) and Chick Hearn (from the Los Angeles Lakers) Now the call itself isn't one of the 10 greatest of all time. It lacks . The first of Johnny Most's two entries in these rankings (I'm not really spoilingGET LINK <http://1/?book=158261850X>PDF Voice of the Celtics: Johnny Most's Greatest Calls Full Book.John M. Most (June 15, 1923 – January 3, 1993) was an American sports announcer, known primarily as the raspy radio voice of the Boston Celtics of the National Basketball Association from 1953-1990. He is perhaps best remembered for his excited call of Havlicek stole the ballThis collection of the best of Most is why Johnny Most will forever be known as The Voice of the Celtics. Colorful is the one word which best described Boston Celtics broadcaster Johnny Most. While his classic gravelly-voiced calls, such as Havlicek stole the ball and Bird steals it - 10 min - Uploaded by Eileen ProseThis 1985 interview happened just after the Celtics lost the World Championship to the Lakers Johnny's most famous call came the closing seconds of Game 7 of the 1965 Eastern Conference Finals Most could be heard yelling into the microphone in his raspy voice, - 2 min - Uploaded by Gary ZappelliSome Great Battles from the Boston Bruins and the Boston Celtics. - 67 min - Uploaded by Tom MullenTaped on cassette in 1993, this was an hour and a half tribute to Johnny Most, the legendary Voices Of The Celtics: Johnny Most's Greatest Calls Mike Carey, Jamie Most ISBN: 9781582618500 Kostenloser Versand für alle Bücher mit Versand und Zahlungsmittel Johnny was the voice of the Celtics from 1953-1990. Johnny's most famous call came the closing seconds of Game 7 of the 1965 Eastern